

Workshop on the Impact of Automation on Labor Markets

Call for Papers

Aarhus, 21-22 August 2025

We hereby invite submission of papers for the Workshop on the Impact of Automation on Labor Markets to be held in Aarhus, Denmark, Aarhus, 21-22 August 2025. The workshop will be hosted by our research center FIND (Research Centre for Firms and INdustry Dynamics) sponsored by the Carlsberg Foundation and Aarhus University.

Keynote speakers:

Anna Salomons, Utrecht University

Guy Michaels, London School of Economics

The aim of the workshop is to bring together researchers working on issues in automation and labor markets. Focus will be on scientific exchange, facilitating collaborative research and contacts among researchers, as well as offering junior researchers an opportunity to present their work and establish closer contacts among researchers based in Denmark and international researchers in the field.

Papers should be submitted electronically by 1 May 2025, to Malene Vindfeldt Skals (malska@econ.au.dk) in PDF format only; decisions will be made on 15 May. The only requirement in terms of topics is that papers concern automation and labor markets, broadly defined. Please also indicate whether you would accept to be a discussant.

The core program of the workshop will run on both Thursday and Friday at the main campus of Aarhus University. We expect that participants stay during the whole core program.

Please note that participants must cover their own travel costs. The organizers cover all conference costs, including a dinner on 21 August and three nights stay from 20-23 August at a hotel in Aarhus city center.

For further information, please contact the organizing committee: Michael Koch (mkoch@econ.au.dk) or Daisuke Adachi (daisuke.adachi@econ.au.dk).
